Contest Rules

1. Participants and Teams: Participants may participate in the Contest either individually or in a group of Participants (a group of Participants participating together referred to as a “Team”; a Participant participating individually also qualifies as a Team). Participants participating individually or in Teams must complete a Team registration form that the Host will make available to all Participants. Each Team, including individual Participants, must identify and associate with faculty advisor (a “Faculty Advisor”), who shall be a teacher or professor professionally affiliated with the academic institution in which the individual Participant or, in the case of a Team, at least one Participant on a Team, is enrolled as a student. Each Team must also identify a designated representative with which the Host will communicate, known as the Team Captain. Individual Participants also will qualify as the Team Captain for his/her/their Team. The Host may communicate with other Team members or Faculty Advisors. Every Participant on the Team must complete the Team registration form and join the team Slack channel that the Host makes available to Participants. All Contest communications will take place on the Contest Slack channel. Participants remain responsible at all times for joining and monitoring the Contest Slack channel for Host and Contest communications.
2. Contest Period and Phases: The Contest begins at 17:00:00 UTC on January 17, 2024, and ends at 17:00:00 UTC on April 17, 2024 (“Contest Period”). PARTICIPANTS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR DETERMINING THE CORRESPONDING TIME ZONE IN THEIR RESPECTIVE JURISDICTION. This Contest consists of two Phases:
 - a. Phase 1: Participants must design and build a secure electronic environment that meets certain requirements that the Host will provide to each Participant on or before January 17, 2024 (the “Design Phase”). Participants that complete the Design Phase can proceed to Phase 2.

The Design Phase will consist of a challenge where Participants are tasked with designing and building a secure embedded system according to functional and security requirements that are announced at the beginning of the Contest. To complete the Design Phase, Participant’s system must meet the functional requirements and should make a non-trivial attempt to meet the security requirements. Points may be earned in the Design Phase: (1) by completing timed Design Phase challenges announced at the beginning of the Contest; and (2) by identifying and fixing bugs in the reference design provided by Host. Host reserves the right to determine whether Participant has sufficiently met the requirements to earn points or complete the Design Phase.

- b. Phase 2: Participants must simultaneously (i) electronically “attack,” i.e., use electronic, physical, or software means to extract sensitive information from other Participant’s design(s) or to otherwise cause the design to behave in a manner violating the security requirements, and obtain information electronically concealed in another Participant’s environment (a “Flag” or “Electronic Flag”); and (ii) defend the Participant’s established electronic environment from other Participants’ similar electronic “attacks.” (the “Attack Phase”).

The Attack Phase begins once the first Participant completes the Design Phase, but no sooner than 17:00:00 UTC on February 28, 2024. During the Attack Phase, Participants will be given the designs of other Participants as they enter the Attack Phase.

Points may be earned in the Attack Phase:

- i. By attacking the designs of other Participants and successfully compromising security requirements in the form of flags embedded in the system;
 - ii. By accruing points through time spent in the Attack Phase without any other Participant capturing the flags on their design; and
 - iii. By completing other challenges that the Host announces at the beginning of the Contest.
3. Points: A Participant or a Team must explain to Host how the Participants or Teams obtained a Flag via the Host-identified Slack workspace. Host in its sole discretion as judge of the Contest retains the right to attribute or revoke points for any reason, including, but not limited to, absent or insufficient explanations. On or about April 26, 2024, the Host will announce the Participant's entitled to Prizes (defined below) based on satisfaction of certain criteria in participating in the Contest.
4. Award Ceremony: Near the end of the Attack Phase, the Host will invite certain Participants to present at the award ceremony, which is scheduled to take place on or about April 26, 2024. The exact number of Teams invited is at the discretion of Host. In the event that the award ceremony has an in-person component, some invited Participants in Host's sole discretion may be awarded scholarships to subsidize travel to the event based on a combination of performance and need. At the Award Ceremony, the final scores and prizes will be revealed. Attendance at the Award Ceremony will be subject to separate terms and conditions.
5. Prizes: Host will award Prizes in the amounts identified below. Only United States citizens are eligible to receive a Prize. Host retains sole and final discretion to award Prizes. Prizes are in United States Dollars.
 - i. First Prize: Awarded to either the individual Participant or the Team with the aggregate greatest number of points that Host awards in its sole discretion during the Contest Period. First Prize is a total amount of $10,000.00 USD.
 - ii. Second Prize: Awarded to either the individual Participant or the Team with the aggregate second greatest number of points that Host awards in its sole discretion during the Contest Period. Second Prize is a total amount of $5,000.00 USD.
 - iii. Third Prize: Awarded to either the individual Participant or Team with the aggregate third greatest number of points that Host awards in its sole discretion during the Contest Period. Third Prize is a total amount of $2,500.00 USD.
 - iv. Additional Prizes: Host may award additional prizes to Teams or individual Participants for meritorious behavior over the course of the Contest, as determined by Host in its sole discretion. The Host may issue up to three separate Additional Prizes, each in the amount of $2,500.00 USD. The Host may announce additional Prize amounts during the Contest or at the award ceremony.
